TTC chief's job in jeopardy?

Webster's refusal to support Sheppard subway has Ford administration seeking replacement, sources say

Gary Webster, the TTC's top executive, is caught in the crosshairs of Mayor Rob Ford's administration, prompting fears that Toronto transit could be headed on a disastrous course if he's fired.

A 30-year TTC veteran, the 60-year-old chief general manager has drawn the ire of the Fords over his refusal to support the Sheppard subway extension the mayor wants to build, say Torstar sources.

Webster could not be reached for comment, but TTC spokesman Brad Ross issued a statement Thursday saying, "The TTC will not speculate on Mr. Webster's future. The chief general manager is working hard with staff on the 2012 budget, as well as ongoing customer service improvement initiatives. This is a large, complex organization. His continued leadership has never been more important."

Most transit experts, including former TTC boss David Gunn, consider the subway plan a joke.

The Fords are so intent on Webster's removal, sources say, they won't let him hire a new chief operating officer — an internationally advertised position that is attracting top applicants from London and Sydney, Australia.

▶ Firefighters sit in cooling chairs, with cold water in the arm rests and a water-misting fan, as they sip water after putting out a fire at 45 Sudbury St. in the King and Ossington area on Thursday. The fire is thought to have started on an outdoor deck of a townhouse. It was brought under control without incident, but the firefighters had to contend with record-high temperatures and were quick to try to cool down when they stripped out of their bunker suits.

Did mayor break his word?

Despite Rob Ford's election promise, cuts are now on the table

'I will assure you that services will not be cut, guaranteed,' mayor said during campaign

Many Torontonians believed Mayor Rob Ford when, two weeks before the Oct. 25 election, he promised "services will not be cut, guaranteed."

Ford made the vow Oct. 8 while proposing a 2011 budget that would quickly fix the city's finances with $525.6 million in undefined — but easily found — "gravy." Residents would not feel a thing.

Eight months later, Torontonians face a 2012 budget deficit of more than $443 million and Ford has put on the table a thick catalogue of deep cuts.

Suggestions in eight city-commissioned KPMG reports, the last of which was released Thursday, include library closures, fire and police department layoffs, reduced snow clearing and street sweeping, and the elimination of 2,000 day-care subsidies.

The latest proposals, to Ford's executive committee, total more than $700 million and include scrapping a program that funds 685 student-nutrition programs, 42 AIDS-prevention projects and 38 community drug-prevention programs.

Ford, who in January revised his promise to no "major" service reductions, on Thursday would not call any of the KPMG proposals "cuts."

"We're finding efficiencies. That's what the taxpayers want," he told reporters and members of the public at a TTC event Thursday morning.

"Taxpayers have given me direction and they don't want us to increase their taxes by 20 per cent."

Deputy Mayor Doug Holyday said later Thursday: "There's going to be some cuts, I can assure you of that. How the overall public will view this is another matter."

But Holyday, a respected conservative who endorsed Ford late in the civic election campaign, denied the mayor has broken his word.

"I don't think there's any broken promise here at all," he said, because past administrations, including David Miller's, also looked for efficiencies.

The KPMG recommendations go to executive committee in September, along with results of city-staff-led efficiency and user-fee reviews.

Council is scheduled to vote on a final budget next February.

Expert opinion

Sanford Borins, a University of Toronto management professor, predicts Mayor Rob Ford will inflict service cuts that will primarily impact lower-income Torontonians who live in the city's core.

▶ He noted that Ford, faced with the reality of a big deficit and little "gravy," now says property taxes might rise three per cent next year — above inflation — and that a steep hike in user fees is on the table.

▶ "We have a mayor who's going to be retreating on his promise and, lo and behold, raise taxes and fees, and impose real service cuts.... I guess his hope is that three years from now, when the next election comes, people will forget."

Cop-car arsonist jailed 6 more months

Judge agrees man's actions were out of character but says offence must be swiftly punished

A man found guilty of setting fire to a police squad car during the G20 must spend six more months in jail.

Justice Rebecca Shamai sentenced Lekang Mdlongwa to 21 months on Thursday but credited him 15 months for the 10 months and 11 days he spent in pre-trial custody.

Shamai did not sentence Mdlongwa to pay any restitution for the destroyed police car, saying she had no faith in the unemployed man's ability to pay. She did, however, order him to provide a DNA sample to be included in an arsonists' database.

Mdlongwa was found guilty after a four-day trial last month produced "an abundance of photographic and video evidence," provided largely by citizens, showing Mdlongwa lighting garbage on fire inside the police cruiser and later stoking the fire while covering the bottom half of his face with a black bandana.

VINCE TALOTTA/THE TORONTO STAR

▶ CP 24 anchor Farah Nasser and meteorologist Chris Potter have a little cooling off fun after shooting their afternoon news update live just outside the Black Bull Tavern.

City rides heat wave

- Torontonians clamber to cool off as temperatures sore to extremes
- Rogers Centre roof closes for the first time for heat-related reasons

Really a record?

Thursday's scorcher wasn't quite the city's hottest day ever. But where, exactly, it ranks among Toronto's highest-ever temperatures depends on which statistics you use:

- According to measurements taken at Pearson airport, Toronto's heat record was set on Aug. 25, 1948 when it was 38.3 C.
- Measurements at Pearson started in 1937.
- But in 1936, downtown temperatures on July 9 were measured as high as 40.6 C, and reached 40 C three times between July 8 and 11 of that year.

Thursday's temperature soared to 37.5 C at 5 p.m. at Pearson airport, making it the fourth-hottest day Toronto has seen since measurements at Pearson started in 1937. The humidex made it feel more like 49 C.

Toronto's hottest day remains August 25, 1948, which soared to 38.3 C. Thursday also fell just short of the city's hottest-ever July day. That record still belongs to July 7, 1988, when the mercury rose to 37.6 C.

An extreme heat alert was in effect for the second straight day, leaving people with a few coping options. Here are a few ways the city dealt with Thursday's sweltering heat.

Beating the heat:
The city opened seven cooling centres for the second straight day. Almost 700 people had visited them on Wednesday.

City services:
With so many air conditioners working overtime, the city came close to setting a new power-consumption record.

Toronto Hydro said its peak demand reached 4,953 megawatts around 4 p.m., barely missing the high of 5,018 set in July 2006. But they reported no heat-related power outages.

Recreation:
The heat had families heading for beaches across the western GTA, but in Halton, swimmers could only stand and imagine what the cool waters might feel like.

Halton's health department declared most beaches across the region unsafe for swimming because of high bacteria levels. Only the beach at Milton's Kelso Conservation Area got a clean bill of health after water samples were taken this week.

"We came prepared with coolers and bathing suits," said a disappointed Petra Blenkhorne, who brought sons Ethan and William to the water's edge at Oakville's Coronation Park. "They always say it's at least five degrees cooler by the water."

2010 saw drop in crime, lowest level since 1973

Canada's crime rate fell last year to its lowest level in nearly four decades, a statistic that opposition MPs held up as proof the governing Conservatives don't need to spend billions on new jails.

Data released Thursday by Statistics Canada shows the crime rate continued a 20-year decline last year, dropping five per cent from 2009 and hitting the lowest level since 1973.

The homicide rate was the lowest since 1966.

The statistics agency said the overall police-reported crime rate is still following a long-term downward curve, despite the alarm bells from the Harper government over the need for tough-on-crime legislation.

Crime decline

- Police reported nearly 2.1 million Criminal Code incidents last year, down about 77,000 from 2009.
- The majority of the decline was attributed to drops in the numbers of property crimes, such as car theft, theft under 5,000, mischief and break-ins.

The agency said an index which measures the severity of crime fell six per cent in 2010. The crime severity index is at its lowest point since 1998, the first year for which such data are available.

The Conservatives, though, still want to pursue a crime crackdown. In the past they have brushed off the police-reported crime rates, saying many crimes don't get reported and thus undermine the statistics.

Earlier this year, the Conservatives reluctantly released rudimentary cost estimates for a suite of criminal justice legislation. The total five-year cost of 18 justice bills was listed at $650 million - although the Parliamentary Budget Officer has said the cost of just one of those bills would be several billion for Ottawa alone. York officer reported shot in Aurora mall

On a day when crime news at last appeared to be taking a positive turn, reports say a York regional police officer has been injured in a shooting at a mall in Aurora.

A police spokesman would not confirm the report and said he could not comment because the investigation was in the preliminary stages.

TV news station CP24 reported that the officer had been shot in the wrist in the Thursday night incident.

People contacted at businesses in the mall at Aurora Road and Highway 404 said there was a heavy police presence in the area.

Kenney: No room for war criminals

- Government website publicizes names of suspects
- Many thought to be living in GTA

Federal officials have released the names of 30 suspected war criminals they say entered the country illegally.

The government launched a website yesterday identifying the suspects and is asking the public to report any information that could lead to their whereabouts.

Immigration Minister Jason Kenney said anyone who has committed war crimes should be "rounded up and kicked out of Canada," at a news conference in Mississauga.

There are stringent measures to prevent war criminals from entering the country, but it can be difficult to spot those who apply for asylum using false passports, he said.

DARRYL DYCK/THE CANADIAN PRESS

"They do not belong in this country of peace and respect for human rights."
JASON KENNEY, IMMIGRATION MINISTER

Kenney said he's also concerned some war criminals may be setting their sights on Canada because "our asylum system has a reputation for laxity."

About 300 people are denied entry to Canada each year because of potential violations to human or international rights, said Public Safety Minister Vic Toews.

Toews said the government may release more names in the future if the website is successful.

The Canada Border Services Agency said many of the people identified were last seen in the Greater Toronto Area. "But those individuals could be anywhere in Canada," said the agency's president, Luc Portelance. All have deportation orders against them.

Ex-general fined for affair

Former No. 1 man in Afghanistan pleads guilty to having illicit relations there then urging a cover up

PAUL CHIASSON/THE CANADIAN PRESS

▶ Daniel Menard

The dramatic fall from grace of a once-rising star in Canada's military culminated Thursday in a $7,000 fine and a symbolic reprimand.

This was after former brigadier-general Daniel Menard had already gone from being a prominent military commander, to an unemployed civilian fighting to keep his family and rebuild his tattered reputation.

It unravelled following an affair with a subordinate, a fling that began in Canada and continued in the makeshift military living quarters in the dusty confines of Kandahar.

Menard pleaded guilty Thursday before a military court martial. His punishment included a fine and a demotion to the rank of colonel — but that latter penalty is largely symbolic, because he will retain his previous rank and pension benefits.

Menard had faced a maximum of two years in prison or a dishonourable discharge from the military.

Lt.-Col. Louis-Vincent d'Auteuil, a military judge, cited principles of integrity, honesty and leadership as he read out his verdict.

"This happened in the worst place, at the worst time — in a theatre of operation," he said.

He said Menard had an admirable career to that point, which is why he was made a general at such a young age. He said that positive track record was also taken into account in the verdict.

He said the punishments Menard had already suffered — his removal from Afghanistan, and the reassignment of his roles, amounted to some suffering for his misdeeds.

Prosecutors cast the case in purely military terms: regulations bar soldiers from having intimate relations while on deployment.

Tories ramping up oilsands' monitoring

The federal government will expand environmental monitoring of the Alberta oilsands to capture everything from its effect on birds' eggs to whether people as far away as the Northwest Territories are being exposed to potentially toxic air.

The scientific data will also be used to fight back against international criticism that the expanding, multi-billion-dollar industry is laying waste to the land, said Minster of the Environment Peter Kent.

"It will provide the facts and the science to defend the product which some abroad are threatening to boycott," Kent said.

The issue is top-of-mind in the U.S. right now, as Washington prepares to decide whether to allow construction of a $7 billion pipeline to transport Canadian crude oil to the U.S. Gulf Coast.

Kent acknowledged that beefed-up monitoring could tip that decision in Canada's favour.

Circumcision ban proposal challenged

Two California lawmakers have introduced a bill that would pre-empt local governments from passing laws banning male circumcision and limit the enacting of such legislation to the state.

Assemblyman Mike Gatto said Thursday the bill is in response to recent local efforts, including a November ballot measure to ban circumcision in San Francisco. The measure would prohibit circumcision of males under the age of 18, making it a misdemeanour punishable by fine or jail.

Winners, hands down?

He lived through hell in a mine trap ... with Elvis

Freed Chilean miner heading to Collingwood

Trapped for months deep underground, Edison Pena found comfort in Elvis.

Pena, missing his wife and small daughter while stuck in a Chilean copper mine with 32 other men, would listen to Are You Lonesome Tonight? and run mile after mile in the dark to take his mind off his loneliness.

"I believe Elvis stayed with me at my lowest moments down there and encouraged me to wait for help," said Pena.

His love for the King brought him to Ontario Thursday, to attend the Collingwood Elvis Festival.

One of "los 33" who were trapped for 69 days nearly a kilometre underground in Copiapo, Chile, before a dramatic rescue that was watched around the world, Pena became famous during the ordeal for his daily runs in mining boots.

He went on to finish the New York Marathon in November, just weeks after being rescued from the mine.

"Every night I used to listen to that and sing," he said, pointing at a small MP3 player.

Pena, 35, arrived at Pearson International Airport Thursday morning in a black suit, blue suede shoes and gold sunglasses.

Now he'll be part of what Collingwood calls "the largest Elvis festival in the world."

Pena Q&A

Diehard Elvis fan Edison Pena reveals more of his love for the King.

- What's your all-time favourite Elvis song? Blue Suede Shoes and Are You Lonesome Tonight?
- Is Elvis alive? Yes. He's alive in me.
- Do you prefer fat Elvis or skinny Elvis? Both. But fat Elvis, singing Unchained Melody, is the best.
- What's your favourite Elvis movie? King Creole.
- What's the cheesiest Elvis souvenir you have? I got a plastic figure at Graceland that you press a button and on its own it sings "One for the money, two for the show." It's amazing!
- What do you think Elvis would have done down in the mine? He would have done the same thing as me — sing.

Angry Ireland, finally, slaps Vatican over abuse

From the pews and pulpits, Ireland's Catholics are demanding that the Vatican finally come clean on its oversight role in child abuse coverups.

It's a revolution of sorts in Ireland, a nation founded on a pillar of devotion to Roman Catholicism, where many now question the church's role in a rapidly changing society.

For decades Irish leaders let archbishops vet proposed laws, declared they were Catholics first and Irishmen second, and saw crossing the church as a surefire way to lose office.

No longer.

The Irish are broadly lauding this week's thunderbolt from Prime Minister Enda Kenny, who denounced the Vatican's role in the past 17 years of abuse scandals.

He accused the Holy See of downplaying "the rape and torture of children" and hiding behind its status as a sovereign state with its own secrecy-obsessed canon laws.

Astonished cabbies pulled off the road to watch the unprecedented speech on smartphones.

Victims of clerical sexual abuse, who have spent two decades trying to be heard and believed, cheered a day they thought would never come.

Giant coverup

- The latest investigation, into the County Cork diocese of Cloyne, was published last week. It found that officials there were still shielding suspected pedophiles from the law until 2008.
- That's 12 years after the Irish church unveiled a new policy requiring the mandatory reporting of all suspected crimes to police.

Somali families are desperate

While soldiers beat back people fighting over food supplies, the UN appeals for $300 million to help

Somali soldiers beat back desperate families with gun butts Thursday as they fought for food supplies in front of a weeping diplomat, a day after the UN declared parts of the country were suffering from the worst famine in a generation. "I will knock on every door I can to help you," the African Union envoy to Somalia, Jerry Rawlings, told the gathered families in the capital, Mogadishu.

Somalia's civil war is partly to blame for turning the drought into a famine. Analysts warned aid agencies could be airlifting emergency supplies to the failed state 20 years from now unless the UN-backed government improves. The UN has appealed for $300 million over the next two months and aid agencies warn it will take at least $1 billion to provide food, medicine and shelter for 11 million people in East Africa until the end of 2011.

The UN believes tens of thousands have already died in the inaccessible interior, held by al-Qaida linked Islamist rebels who denied many aid agencies access for two years.

MISSILE TESTING

India says missile test a success

India successfully tested a new quick-reaction tactical missile Thursday and will use it in battlefield support for the army, the Defence Ministry said.

The surface-to-surface "Prahaar" missile — meaning "attack" in Hindi — can carry a variety of warheads weighing up to 200 kilograms and hit targets 150 kilometres away.

India's missiles are mostly intended for any confrontation with neighbouring Pakistan, but both countries routinely test theirs, so India's latest was unlikely to aggravate tensions.

The missile is meant to provide a "cost-effective, quick-reaction, all-weather, all-terrain, high-accurate battlefield support tactical system," the ministry said.

Ping! Sounds like a scandal

Scotland Yard to probe claim Murdoch's reporters paid police to ping — or track — cellphone signals

Embattled media mogul Rupert Murdoch must listen to a new noise in the already deafening phone-hacking scandal:

Pinging.

Scotland Yard was asked Thursday to look into claims that reporters at Murdoch's News of the World paid officers to obtain people's locations by pinging — tracking their cellphone signals.

The practice is known as pinging because of the way cellphone signals bounce or "ping" off relay towers.

Jenny Jones, a Green Party member of the Metropolitan Police Authority, cited claims that reporters at the now-defunct tabloid were able to trace mobile phones in return for payments to corrupt police officers.

London's Metropolitan Police says it's assigning 15 more officers to help the 45 already involved in the phone-hacking investigation.

Sean Hoare, a former News of the World reporter, said officers were paid nearly $500 per trace.

Hoare was found dead Monday at his home near London. Police say the death is not suspicious.

Pinging joins a host of alleged media misdeeds being put under the microscope as police, politicians and the public weigh allegations that News of the World journalists engaged in years of lawless behaviour to get scoops.

The crisis has shaken Murdoch's media empire and has led to resignations of two of Scotland Yard's most senior officers.

British politicians have felt the heat too, with the country's top two party leaders falling over each other to distance themselves from papers they once courted assiduously.

Now he faces lawsuits

As the phone-hacking scandal makes headlines in Britain, Rupert Murdoch's News Corp. must confront at least two U.S.-based shareholder lawsuits, a possible Standard & Poor's credit downgrade and the beginnings of a federal investigation.

And even a 2012 Games deal turns sour

Rupert Murdoch's British newspapers are set to lose exclusive access to British athletes ahead of the 2012 London Olympics after the closure of the News of the World.

Team 2012, an initiative supporting British Olympians, had signed up News International as its official partner to help raise funds for athletes.

But the British branch of Murdoch's empire can no longer meet its Team 2012 obligations after the Sunday tabloid was closed.

Atlantis makes final touchdown

Darkness robbed almost all views of shuttle approaching for last time, making it more of NASA family affair

Atlantis and four astronauts returned from the International Space Station in triumph Thursday, bringing an end to NASA's 30-year shuttle journey with one last, rousing touchdown that drew cheers and tears.

Thousands gathered near the landing strip and packed Kennedy Space Center, and countless others watched from afar, as NASA's longest-running spaceflight program came to a close.

"After serving the world for over 30 years, the space shuttle's earned its place in history. And it's come to a final stop," commander Christopher Ferguson radioed after a ghostlike Atlantis glided through the twilight.

"Job well done, America," replied Mission Control.

With the space shuttles retiring to museums, it will be another three to five years at best before Americans are launched again from U.S. soil, as private companies gear up to seize the Earth-to-orbit-and-back baton from NASA.

The long-term future for American space exploration is just as hazy, a huge concern for many at NASA and all those losing their jobs because of the shuttle's end. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"The space shuttle has changed the way we view the world and it's changed the way we view our universe. There's a lot of emotion today, but one thing's indisputable: America's not going to stop exploring."
ATLANTIS COMMANDER CHRISTOPHER FERGUSON

▶ Space Shuttle Atlantis comes to a complete stop at the Kennedy Space Center landing strip at Cape Canaveral Thursday. The landing of Atlantis marks the end of NASA's 30-year space shuttle program.

Canada salutes end of shuttle era

As the sun rose over the Canadian Space Agency south of Montreal, a handful of officials watched on a giant screen as the shuttle Atlantis touched down for a final time at the Kennedy Space Center in Florida.

Pierre Jean, Canada's program manager for the International Space Station, was feeling melancholy.

"You temper the sadness of seeing the life of one amazing vehicle come to the end, knowing that there's something in the future," he said

Jean points out that the Canadian space program has always relied on other partners for launch capabilities to space.

A Russian Soyuz will carry Canadian astronaut Chris Hadfield to the orbiting space lab in 2012 and all flights to the space station during the next few years will be through the Soyuz. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Innovations

- The 30-year shuttle program is credited with ushering in many innovations.
- They include a miniaturized heart pump, metal alloys that sparked a new line of golf clubs, better baby formula and a golden age of Canadian robotics.
- The final flight of Atlantis carried one of three remaining Canadarm robots, which will eventually end up in a U.S. museum.
- But the original robotic arm, which was taken into space in 1981, was recently retired with the shuttle Endeavour and will be returned to Canada later this year.
- Eight Canadian astronauts have flown 14 times on the U.S. fleet of space shuttles.

▶ Ads with other animals also did well.

Agency says images of cats get 78% more clicks on Facebook

Are you the creative force behind an ad agency? A company splurging to raise your digital profile? A copywriter crying over your deadline?

Give up — just take a photo of your cat and post it online.

That's the finding of Red Square Agency, an ad agency based in Mobile, Ala.

Looking to expand nationally, the agency, whose clients include the Hard Rock Casino and Cirque du soleil, ran four ads on Facebook. Constrained by the 135-character limitations of Facebook advertising, three ads followed a similar format: "Red Square is for brevity. Hire us," one pronounced.

Then they threw in the cat, Cous Cous, as a laugh. A fourth ad read: "This ad features a cat: It has nothing to do with Red Square Agency but we hope you'll click on it anyway." It ran with a photo of an overweight, grey-haired cat staring at an American flag.

More people clicked on the cat. In fact, over the course of 30 days an average of 631 Facebook users clicked on the agency's real ads, while 1,120 people clicked on Cous Cous. And Cous Cous got fan mail sent to their corporate email.

"People don't like the idea of adverts on social media, so you have to be even more mindful about how you create them," Red Square founder Rich Sullivan told the Toronto Star.

Gadhafi's backup plan

Libya rebels: Oil installations booby-trapped by Gadhafi forces

Libyan ruler Moammar Gadhafi's troops have booby-trapped petroleum installations in the strategic oil port of Brega so they can be blown up if his regime loses the town, a top rebel official said Thursday.

Mahmoud Jibril, the rebels' diplomatic chief, also said Gadhafi's forces have boobytrapped oil fields. He did not state which fields. While Brega is a key oil-processing and shipment hub, the fields that feed it lie far to the south in the Libyan desert.

"Unfortunately, Brega is a big minefield right now," Jibril told reporters after meeting with Spanish Foreign Minister Trinidad Jimenez. "We discovered that they planted mines all over the place. Even some oil establishments, some oil fields, have been full of bombs, explosives."

Rebels hold most of eastern Libya, but their push to seize Brega since last week unravelled Tuesday when 27 rebels were killed in shelling by Gadhafi's troops.

Their forces have since pulled back from the city amid hopes that Gadhafi's forces will surrender, and Jibril said rebel fighters "are circulating Brega from all fronts right now."

Fake Apple stores a piracy milestone

Three masquerade stores spotted in China's Yunnan province ◗ Nation is slow to counter piracy problem

It looks almost exactly like a sleek Apple store. Sales assistants in blue T-shirts with the company's logo chat with customers. Signs advertising the iPad 2 hang on the white walls. Outside, the famous logo sits next to the words Apple Store.

China, long known for producing counterfeit consumer gadgets, software and brand name clothing, has reached a piracy milestone — fake Apple stores.

An American who lives in Kunming in southern Yunnan province said Thursday that she stumbled on three shops masquerading as Apple stores. She posted photos on her BirdAbroad blog. The 27-year-old, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said the set-up was convincing.

"It had the classic Apple store winding staircase and weird upstairs sitting area," she wrote.

"But some things were just not right: the stairs were poorly made. The walls hadn't been painted properly."

A worker at a fake Apple store told The Associated Press that they "are" an Apple store before hanging up.

Amy Bessette, an Apple spokeswoman, said it had no comment on the Chinese stores, but pointed to a web page on Apple's Chinese site that lists its authorized resellers.

- China's Supreme Court said that the judicial system rendered verdicts in 2010 in over 400,000 intellectual property cases with a combined value of almost $1.2 billion US.

CRASHING OF WEDDING, STAGE AND DECORUM

THE METRO LIST

NEIL MORTON
METRO

1 Piegate & The Slap: A British parliamentary hearing Tuesday into the News of the World phone-hacking scandal turned into a gong show when comedian/activist "Jonnie Marbles" live-tweeted his pie toss at media mogul Rupert Murdoch, who was eating humble pie for his paper's wrongdoings.

Murdoch's wife, Wendi Deng, became an instant hero, leaping up and directing an epic slap at Marbles.

Girl power!

2 Justin Bieber The Wedding Crasher: It didn't have the comic effect of Vince Vaughn and Owen Wilson, but nonetheless the "Ohmigod!" factor was huge when Justin Bieber and girlfriend Selena Gomez (who turns 19 Friday, FYI) crashed a Malibu wedding party last weekend.

The Biebs tweeted after the fact, "WEDDING CRASHERS last night! hahaha. too funny. crazy story."

3 Ottawa Bluesfest: Cheap Trick brought the house down literally on Sunday night during a performance at Bluefest.

A huge storm suddenly blew in out of nowhere, knocking the entire stage down where they were playing. The band managed to get off the stage just before it crumpled to the ground.

This incident gives new meaning to their classic hit, Surrender.

4 Moneyball: Brad Pitt's Moneyball, based on the 2003 bestseller on the "sabermetric" approach to assembling a winning major league baseball team, comes out in September.

And even though Moneyball's myths are exposed in a new book The Beauty of Short Hops: How Chance and Circumstance Confound the Moneyball Approach to Baseball, a Brad Pitt baseball movie will be a box office home run.

5 Elton John in Oshawa: If you're an Elton fan and you live near the 'Shwa, Friday is your order day: Yes, the Rocket Man is playing General Motors Centre September 9th and tickets go on sale Friday at 10 a.m.

Call 1-877-436-8811 or go to the website: generalmotorscentre.com.

If you don't manage to score tix, well, I guess that's why they call it the blues.

6 Lollapalooza Turns 20: The 20th anniversary edition is coming up August 5-7 at Grant Park in Chicago, and while the festival has gone mainstream (Eminem and Coldplay are part of this year's lineup) from its alternative/grunge roots, it's great to see it thriving again.

Go to Lollapalooza.com to check out the special video series they're doing to commemorate the anniversary.

Worth Mentioning

MUSLIMS. Attitudes toward Muslims have become slightly more positive in the United States, Britain, France, Germany and Russia compared with five years ago, though negative views between Muslim countries and the West persist on both sides, a Pew Center survey found.

The survey, by Pew's Global Attitudes Project, found majorities of Muslims surveyed in five of six Muslim-dominant countries and the Palestinian territories described non-Muslim Westerners as selfish and greedy.

In all of the six Western countries surveyed, less than 30 per cent of non-Muslims said they consider Muslims respectful of women.

Ten years after the Sept. 11, 2001, attacks against the World Trade Centre in the United States, Muslims in the Middle East and Asia and non-Muslims both have concern about Islamic extremism.

The surveys were conducted between late March and mid-May.

Holy cow! You need to moo-ve out of the way

A Danish rider competing in Italy's Brixia Tour stage race says he has broken his collar bone and suffered concussion after crashing into cattle that had strayed onto the course.

Twenty-year-old Martin Lind, who races for Denmark's Christina Watches team, tells The Associated Press on Thursday that he was riding downhill at around 60 kilometres per hour when the animals suddenly wandered onto the road and into the peloton.

Lind says he was knocked conscious when "two cows, or bulls, just came in from the side" in Wednesday's first stage of the three-day race. He was admitted to a nearby hospital and released a few hours later. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

RICHARD CROUSE & MARK BRESLIN
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

Old-fashioned action

Richard Crouse and Mark Breslin agree that Captain America is more of an action flick than another superhero movie But it has flaws, like sloppy CGI

Richard Crouse: Mark, I went into this with low expectations. I'm kind of superheroed out these days, but I was pleasantly surprised. It's a bit long, but it doesn't feel like the other hero movies we've seen recently. The hipness of Iron Man is absent, the jokey feel of Thor is gone. Instead, this is an old-fashioned action adventure movie with extraordinary poets at the heart of it. What did you think?

Mark Breslin: I'm superheroed out as well but this guy's no superhero: he's an enhanced mesomorph with a magic frisbee! The movie works as an action flick, but it's missing the irony of the source material. Is America so desperate to believe in its military that it has to go back to "the last good war" to feel good about itself? And I have other complaints too, like the sloppy CGI. In the beginning, Chris Evans as a 99-pound weakling looked like a bad photoshopped pic from 2003.

RC: I liked its lack of irony. Perhaps part of the appeal is that in the complicated times we live in it's refreshing to see a movie that harkens back to a simpler time when the enemy was easily identifiable and a strong guy with a colourful shield and plenty of heart could be a hero. The pre-mesomorph Evans may have been a bit sloppy CGI-wise, but you have to admit, Red Skull's lack of identifiable facial features was a nice villainous touch.

MB: It may say too much about me that I always enjoy the villain rather than the hero. And Hugo Weaving was very good indeed, especially with his red skull. And Tommy Lee Jones always brings his game to a movie, even if the role was rote. Same with Stanley Tucci and Toby Young. The satiric USO tour sequence was fun. And I liked the way the movie ended. See, Richard? I can find the good in anything, even jingoistic propaganda.

RC: I know it's jingoistic propaganda, but it's 1940s jingoistic propaganda! I liked the way the movie paid tribute to the rah-rah movies of WWII and B movies of the period. The bad guys are really bad, but never fear! The good guys are better. Where else are you going to see giant bombs, each labeled for extra evil effect with the name of the city they are meant to destroy?

MB: The labeling of the bombs was exactly what I wanted more of! I would forgive this movie its flaws if its strengths were greater. But it's mostly derivative storytelling, choppy editing and unmemorable dialogue. Good action, though.

Harris talks Smurfs with Metro

Actor Neil Patrick Harris shares his grown-up thoughts about the beloved childrens' franchise

NED EHRBAR
MWN IN HOLLYWOOD

Aside from getting the chance to help update a beloved franchise, there was one main draw about starring in the Smurfs for Neil Patrick Harris: It was nothing like his over-the-top How I Met Your Mother character.

"I spend six-and-a-half, seven months a year playing the chewing-on-the-scenery Barney Stinson, and so I look for a role that is different than him in some way during my off time," he says. And his character, Patrick Winslow, a father-to-be and put-upon marketing exec whose New York apartment becomes a hideout for Smurfs, is indeed nothing like Barney.

The character is also apparently a departure from Harris himself, who admits he wouldn't be as welcoming as his on-screen persona if a gaggle of little blue people were to invade his home.

"I'd probably Taze them and keep them in a small box and quickly find a reality show or some way to make a profit from it, and travel around like the Warner Bros. cartoon with the frog," he says before stopping to consider the severity of his answer. "I'm Gargamel, apparently."

The notoriously sunny actor strays to the darker side of humour again

Crazy, lovely Emma Stone

Once known as 'the girl in Superbad,' Stone is morphing into Hollywood's favourite comic leading lady But the actress is still not spoiled by fame

HEIDI PATALANO
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

There's an obvious reason why Emma Stone is quickly becoming the most in-demand comedic actress in Hollywood.

The 22-year-old Scottsdale, Ariz., native bursts into a room at the Waldorf Astoria in New York City in an emerald satin dress, holding a bottle Diet Dr Pepper ("It's my weird vice lately," she admits) and enthusiastically bids us a hearty "Heyyyyyyyyy!" with a comically grand flourish of her arms. Her charm is disarming.

But you'd also know that from watching her growing list of films, from her debut in Superbad to Zombieland, to her first starring role in last fall's hit film Easy A. Stone at 22 is already high up on the Hollywood food chain. This summer alone she's promoting three films: last week's Friends with Benefits, this week's Crazy, Stupid, Love and The Help, in which she once again has a starring role.

Stone's enthusiasm during the Crazy, Stupid, Love junket is particularly impressive considering that doing press for the latter two films at once has caused her to log in enough air miles to make some kind of world record.

"This is day nine," she explains as she begins to count off cities on her fingertips. "I was in L.A., then San Francisco, then Chicago, then Boston, then here. That's been this week. Then I leave for L.A. on Wednesday and then San Diego and then back to L.A. and then to Jackson when pressed on what his Smurf name would be, were he to suddenly find himself three apples high.

"I'd be Snuff Smurf, and I'd end the suffering of all the dying smurfs everywhere," he says, grinning, before thinking better of himself. "That was a dark answer," he says. "Let's say Magical Smurf because I like magic."

Just because Harris has now starred alongside the legendary Smurfs doesn't mean all his Smurf-related questions have been answered. "Who's shagging Smurfette, really? They always kind of go, 'Ooh,' and then they pass out, but I want to know what's going on late at night in Smurf Village," he says. "Does she get passed from Smurf to Smurf? Is she a one-Smurf girl? Is Papa involved? That doesn't seem right at all. She could swing the other way."

While Harris has been having fun exploring the world of Smurfs over the summer, it will soon be time to get back to work on his hit sitcom — not that he knows exactly what's happening next.

While Harris' Barney is apparently set to tie the knot, they haven't told him who he's marrying. "I keep prying them for information, but they fear that I'll someday be sitting at a big rectangular table around a bunch of people asking me questions and say something that I'm not supposed to."

and then New York and then L.A. and then back to New York."

But she doesn't seem bothered by all the activity, even if she's annoyed at herself from time to time.

"If you [already] hated the sound of your own voice, by the end, man, you really hate the sound of your own voice," she says with an exaggerated eye roll. "And then you hate your opinions and your answers. That's just been my general experience. I feel like I'm not really here right now. I feel like I'm hallucinating a little bit."

Tired as she might be, by all appearances, Stone is still untainted by her growing fame.

"Every single person who has been in a circumstance like this is not still," she observes. "You have to hold it lightly and realize that it will change. What's important is that the people in your life — your family and friends — love you completely and entirely, that they're always making fun of you and making you feel like a little bit of an idiot."

Spiderman

Stone is set to play Peter Parker's girlfriend, Gwen Stacy, in the new adaptation of Spiderman, set to be released in 2012.

What makes this reboot different? "It's just a completely different thing. I don't think there's anything that was or wasn't brought before. It's just different — maybe a little more intimate look at Peter Parker in a way," says Stone.

Movie reviews

Friends with Benefits
Genre: Comedy
Director: Will Gluck
Stars: Mila Kunis, Justin Timberlake
In the inevitable comparison between Friends with Benefits and January's No Strings Attached, the newer film, starring Justin Timberlake and Mila Kunis, comes out on top.

The comedy is sharper, the pace brisker, and while Timberlake is alarmingly limited as an actor, he's vastly preferable to Ashton Kutcher in No Strings Attached.

Kunis does the heavy lifting to make up for her partner's blandness, and she nearly runs away with the movie.

The only real fault is an emotional storyline about Timberlake's character's father and Alzheimer's, which grounds the movie to a halt.

Project Nim
Genre: Documentary
Director: James Marsh
Stars: Herbert Terrace, Stephanie LaFarge, Bob Ingersoll

The latest documentary from Oscar-winner James Marsh, who specializes in stories that would be impossible to believe if they weren't true.

His latest subject is Nim, the first chimpanzee to learn sign language who was raised by a hippie family in the '70s (they also taught him how to use a toilet and smoke marijuana) and subsequently sent to an inhumane medical research lab once the professor in charge of the study lost interest.

Nim's story is incredibly engaging, shocking, touching, and even funny, with Marsh nimbly weaving together interviews, archival footage and stylish reenactments.

It's as gripping as any fiction film and poses intriguing questions about scientific ethics and what separates animals from humans. A new high watermark in the field of monkey movies (move over Ed).

PHIL BROWN

Eco Pirate: The Paul Watson Story
Genre: Documentary
Director: Trish Dolman
Stars: Paul Watson, Patrick Moore, Rex Weyler
●●●½

Paul Watson doesn't exactly fit the mold of the all-loving environmentalist. In fact, the early member of Greenpeace left the organization because he disagreed with their nonviolent polices and now embarks on environmental quests like captaining ships that crash into illegal Japanese whaling vessels (captured in this documentary with terrifying immediacy). As you'd expect, he's a controversial figure and fortunately Trish Dolman's documentary profile offers no sugar coating. She makes the importance of Paul's activism is clear, but not without acknowledging the often insane measures he's willing to take and his shaky personal life. Paul emerges as a complex, flawed, yet vital member of the environmental community.

PHIL BROWN

Circo
Genre: Documentary
Director: Aaron Shock
●●●½

A multi-generational Mexican circus troupe gets profiled in Aaron Schock's detailed and visually accomplished documentary: rather than romanticizing life under the big top, Circo simply stays attuned to its urgent, erratic rhythms. The film also works as a portrait of a country in social and economic transition, and as a consideration of the role of old-school tradition in an increasingly modernizing culture.

Indie sci-fi earns audience accolades

Writer/director Joe Cornish talks to Metro about his first feature film and what he's learned along the way

NED EHRBAR
MWN IN HOLLYWOOD

Since its debut at the SXSW Film Festival in March, writer/director Joe Cornish's indie sci-fi Attack the Block has won a steady stream of audience awards, rave reviews and accolades — it's currently 91 per cent fresh on Rotten Tomatoes.

And it's a reception Cornish doesn't take lightly. "I think the combined power of the Internet and bloggers is just as powerful as any marketing machine, I hope," Cornish says. He sat down with Metro to talk about rehabbing the image of council estates, paying homage to his heroes and sympathizing with juvenile delinquents.

Why do you think the British council estate continues to be such fertile ground for film?

Those places were built in a spirit of great optimism after the war. They replaced lots of slums — certainly in London — and they were seen as futuristic, exciting, utopian housing projects. In the years that have passed, they've become symbolic of the opposite, of people who find themselves in difficult positions. And they've been used in films, certainly, for quite downbeat, depressing narratives. My film was an attempt to actually take it back to that futuristic aesthetic.

Filming the tower block like a spaceship certainly helps.

That was totally intentional. When you look at those fly-by shots of the Nostromo [in Alien] or the Palomino in the Black Hole — I did them as a kid. You do them with your toy car, you put it right next to your eye and go along the surface. It struck me that it was very similar. I was excited that here was this world that had been used in so many movies, and here were these vehicles and these weapons and these characters and these spaces and these walkways, and I thought, there's a toolkit here. There's a play-set for an action-adventure film, and no one's realized that it could be used in that way.

HANDOUT

▶ The heroes of Attack the Block start out as petty criminals.

The heroes start out as petty criminals, but you end up sympathizing with them.

I think it's interesting how people have responded to that. Actually, it happens a hell of a lot in movies. I think it's interesting because he's young, it's possibly something to do with his colour, that people react more strongly to this character than they do, for instance, to Ben Affleck's character in the Town that holds a submachine gun to a woman's head and forces her to open a safe, and yet 10 minutes later they're romancing each other in the laundrette.

Maybe it's the scale of the crime, its ordinariness.

That's interesting, absolutely. There's an academic theory about that, weirdly, called "perceived reality," and it's to do with the amount that you think what you're seeing on-screen actually is a potential threat to you in real life. Because, sure, in real life what my kid does is bad. But in the world of movies, it's tame, really tame. But that was the raison d'etre for the film and what made me excited about writing it — that moment when these bad kids mug this woman, something falls out of the sky, she runs away and we don't follow her, we stay with them. I thought, that would be cool.

Given that this is your first feature, what did you learn about making films?

I didn't realize you had to rewrite to budget. I think all films do that. And in fact, concurrently I was reading that amazing Making of 'Star Wars book, and I was reading it to comfort myself during pre-production to see what my heroes had gone through. Darth Vader had his own planet and his own spaceship, but they made the spaceship a planet to save money, and they set everything on that spaceship. The Death Star you assume was this great idea that he had and always intended to do, but no. It came out of budget restrictions and rewrites at the 11th hour. If there's one thing I'm learning from talking to directors of big-budget films, it's that the problems are the same.

Twilight stars surprise fans at Comic-Con

▶ Actress Nikki Reed signs autographs for Twilight fans during 2011 Comic-Con in San Diego.

Early risers among Twilight fans have gotten a chance to see what some of their big-screen idols look like first thing in the morning.

Not long after dawn broke Thursday, Ashley Greene, Nikki Reed, Elizabeth Reaser and other co-stars of the supernatural movie franchise made a surprise visit to greet fans who had camped out for days to catch a preview of the next Twilight flick at Comic-Con.

Greene, Reed and Reaser, who play members of the Cullen vampire family in Twilight, were joined by Julia Jones and Boo Boo Stewart, who co-star as kinfolk in the rival werewolf pack.

The actors signed Twilight posters, mugs and other movie memorabilia, posed for pictures with fans and even served some breakfast goodies to "Twihards," some of whom were in line since Monday afternoon to get into the preview at Comic-Con, a massive gathering for fans of comics, video games, television and film.

"I am a morning person, but this is definitely early, getting up at 4:30," Reed said. "But when people have been camped out since Monday, you just feel it's a good idea to come out and surprise them."

"I feel like this is our time to get out and have actual experiences with fans," Reaser said. "Being out here with them makes me feel the films are special, important and really mean something to them."

A MISCELLANY OF USELESS INFORMATION

SOUND CHECK

ALAN CROSS
SCENE
@METRONEWS.CA

As you may have heard elsewhere, I, er, have some extra time on my hands.

For the first time since Grade 9, I find myself with a summer off. Which is fine, actually. The dog is being thoroughly walked, the garage is immaculately power-washed and I'm nearing the mythical state known as Inbox Zero.

Most importantly, though, I'm finally going through that massive pile of unread books and magazines on the floor of my home office. Here are a few of the (mostly) useless things I've learned over the last couple of weeks:

• Dolly Parton has released a staggering 94 albums in her career and thanks to songs like Whitney Houston's cover of her I Will Always Love You for The Bodyguard soundtrack (which has sold more than 40 million copies worldwide) has a personal worth of about $900 million.

• Remember EMF and their No. 1 one-hit-wonder, Unbelievable from 1990? Keyboardist Ian Dench is rolling in cash after years of writing hits for Beyoncé and Shakira.

• Comedian Ricky Gervais was of a techno-pop duo called Seona Dancing (correctly pronounced as "Shawna Dancing") in the early 80s. They were a miserable failure except for a song called More to Lose, which became a substantial hit in the Philippines.

• Chris Martin of Coldplay has an honours degree in Greek and Latin.

• Buzz band Foster the People was originally called Foster & the People after singer Mark Foster, but when audiences kept mishearing the name as "Foster the People," they made the switch.

• Adele says she was inspired to get into music by the Spice Girls. Her earliest gigs featured her singing songs like Wannabe.

• For this final stage of U2's 360 Tour, the band flies in around 5 p.m., plays the gig and is back on their private plane by midnight.

• Sales of CDs are now so weak it's possible to make it onto the Canadian Top 200 album chart by selling fewer than 200 copies.

10 songs for you to sweat to

With summer temperatures steadily rising across the country, here's a look at 10 of the best songs about getting hot and sweaty.

Add your own favourites to the list.

Summer in the City (Lovin' Spoonful)

"All around, people looking half dead/Walking on the sidewalk, hotter than a match head."

Hot Fun in the Summertime (Sly and the Family Stone)

"That's when I had most of my fun back/High, high, high, high there."

Summertime Blues (Eddie Cochran)

"I'm gonna raise a fuss, I'm gonna raise a holler/About a workin' all summer just to try to earn a dollar."

California Gurls (Katy Perry)

"Sex on the beach, we've got white sand in our stilettos/We freak in my jeep, Snoop Doggy Dogg on the stereo."

Heat Wave (Martha and the Vandellas)

"Just like a heat wave, burning in my heart/Can't keep from crying, tearing me apart."

Hot in the City (Billy Idol)

"It's hot here at night, lonely black and quiet/On a hot summer night."

The Heat Is On (Glenn Frey)

"The heat is on, on the street/Inside your head, on every beat."

In the Heat of the Night (Ray Charles)

"In the heat of the night/Seems like a cold sweat creepin' cross my brow."

Long Hot Summer Night (Jimi Hendrix)

"It sure was a long, long, long hot summer night/As far as my eyes could see."

Too Darn Hot (Cole Porter)

"I'd like to fool with my baby tonight, break ev'ry rule with my baby tonight/But pillow, you'll be my baby tonight, cause it's too darn hot."

Katy Perry leads VMA nominations

Katy Perry's Firework had enough sparks to help her claim a leading nine MTV Video Music Award nominations, including video of the year.

Perry — who hosted the network's Wednesday night special announcing the nominations — was also nominated for best female video for Firework, and best pop video for Last Friday Night (T.G.I.F.).

Adele tied Kanye West with seven nominations. The bestselling Brit will compete with Perry for top video with Rolling in the Deep.

Others in the category include the Beastie Boys for Make Some Noise; rapper Tyler, the Creator for Yonkers; and Bruno Mars for Grenade.

The VMAs will air live from Los Angeles on Aug. 28.

Like father, eventually like son

Eldest son of Bob Marley uses new album to both embrace and push away from family legacy

Ziggy Marley is proudly carrying on his father's musical legacy, but he wants to remind reggae lovers of their differences.

In a new album, the 42-year-old eldest son of Bob Marley reflects on lessons learned from his dad, who died at age 36 from cancer.

On the tune The Roads Less Travelled, he sings about his father's womanizing ways and inability to shed "yes men" in success: "My daddy had a lot of women, and my mama had a lot of grief. The bredrens (friends) that surrounded him became the enemies."

Marley said in an interview that while he's happy to expand his and his family's brand — whether with a Marijuana Man comic book or a Marley's Mellow Mood "relaxation drink" — he's kept his circle of friends small and purposefully avoided accumulating any sort of entourage.

"I'd rather be by myself really than have like a million posse around me," Marley said in an interview at his Los Angeles home. "Some of them you don't even know what's in their hearts. You don't know who you can trust.

"That's why I sing that song, because I learned from what I saw as a child and decided that I would take another way," added Marley, who was just 12 when his father died.

"My father, we bumped heads when I was younger, much younger. ... I had different ideas that I shared with him. He didn't like them as much. He gets upset or whatever. I guess I had a strong opinion from when I was a little boy, you know."

Marley's fourth solo studio album, Wild and Free, also includes a song obliquely about leaving behind his birthplace of Jamaica, titled Get Out of Town.

The five-time Grammy winner now lives primarily in Miami.

"He's from the country and I was born in the town. One day I told him that. I don't want to be a country boy," Marley said of his father. "He was upset with those things. And then another time it was about dreadlocks. I said to him, 'You cannot have dreadlocks. You can be dread in your heart.' He was very upset. Each father want their sons to be just like them really."

But now that Marley — who does sport dreadlocks — has matured, his singing voice and his take on reggae music is arguably more evocative of Bob than others in his famously musical family.

"If it wasn't natural to be like him, it wouldn't happen. But since it naturally evolved to have a lot of the ideas and traits of my father, then that's fine," he said.

Like his father, Marley couches some downbeat themes in sunny-sounding tunes.

"Welcome to the world. I can't promise it's a good place," he sings to his children in one song.

Vince Neil: Motley Crue's rockin' roller coaster

Vince Neil is not a man of many words. This isn't surprising, considering that most of the words he sings with Motley Crue were written by Nikki Sixx anyway. We spoke with Neil from his tour bus in Tampa.

PAT HEALY
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

METRO WORLD NEWS IN BOSTON

I've read that you guys have something called a drum roller coaster on this tour. How has that been working?

Oh it's great. I mean, people are loving it. It's obviously something different.

When you're rehearsing for the tour, at what point does something like a drum roller coaster come into the picture?

At the very end. ... Our very first U.S. show was Dallas, so we set up in the place where we were playing for like three days, then rehearsed the new set.

We did pyro, the roller coaster and then everything else.

On this tour, you let fans select the set lists. Any surprises?

No. I mean, a lot of the songs we knew were gonna be on there, obviously like Girls, Girls, Girls and Wild Side and (Dr.) Feelgood and Home Sweet Home. ... But some of them, like Smokin' in the Boys Room was a big fan favourite. We hadn't played that in a long time. And then Too Young To Fall In Love, which we hadn't played in like 20 years.

Is that because you reached an age where you weren't too young to fall in love?

Well, that song was written 25 years ago. (Laughs) It's just a song, man.

Nikki wrote a lot of the songs. When you sing those words after all these years do you get something new out of it?

Well, no. I mean, I'm performing. I'm not acting out those words, I'm singing a song. ... That's all.

Has life on the road slowed down over the years, or is it still like the Crue bio, The Dirt: Confessions of the World's Most Notorious Rock Band?

Well, we were a young band. We've been together for 30 years now, you know. ... We're not drug addicts like we were. There are things that you do when you're 20 years old you don't do when you're 50.

Taking modern out of family

Devoted fans having a difficult time seeing Eric Stonestreet play any character but Modern Family

Eric Stonestreet sighs slightly when asked if some people are disappointed at finding out he's not gay like the flamboyant character he plays with such zeal on Modern Family.

Some devoted fans of the TV sitcom have criticized him on Twitter for cussing or doing things they believe his character Cameron Tucker wouldn't.

Others who maintain they can't see him as anyone but Cam even said they were surprised to see him in this summer's Bad Teacher, a raunchy comedy about a foul-mouthed, junior high school teacher played by Cameron Diaz.

"That's the sort of thing I've got to stop caring about," said Stonestreet, 39, who will be hosting a show at Montreal's Just For Laughs comedy festival next week.

"People are disappointed sometimes but I hope they understand that I'm an actor playing a character. They love the character and they might like me too if they give me a chance."

After all, it's not like he hasn't done anything besides Modern Family.

The Kansas-born Stonestreet has a lengthy list of TV and movie roles including a recurring stint as a technician on CSI: Crime Scene Investigation.

And his darker side was on full view in appearances on Nip/Tuck and NCIS in which he played murderers.

HANDOUT

▶ Eric Stonestreet, star of Modern Family, will host a show at Montreal's Just For Laughs comedy festival next week.

"The year before Modern Family I think I killed three people on TV," joked Stonestreet, who won an Emmy last year for best supporting actor in a comedy series.

He's nominated for the award again this year, as are several other members of the cast. Modern Family follows the loving yet nutty families of Jay Pritchett (Ed O'Neill); his daughter Claire; and his gay son Mitchell, who is raising an adopted Vietnamese daughter with his partner Cam.

Mitchell, played by the openly gay Jesse Tyler Ferguson, is an uptight lawyer while Cam, as Mitch puts it in one episode, "is the mommy-er of the two."

That's appropriate, considering Stonestreet says he based the nurturing yet linebacker-sized Cam on his mother.

Drunk, high and happy

MINI-SERIES. Former Trailer Park Boys stars Mike Smith, Robb Wells and Jean Paul Tremblay return to TV on Friday with the new comedy miniseries The Drunk and on Drugs Happy Funtime Hour.

In it, the three shoot a sketch-variety TV show called The Happy Funtime Hour in the fictional town of Port Cockerton. Things go awry when an actor hired to play an eccentric scientist (the late Maury Chaykin) makes a powerful and addictive hallucinogen from local berries. As he and the cast ingest the drug, they start to believe they're the characters they portray on the show. Guest stars include Jay Baruchel and Amy Sedaris.

Eric Dane

Grey's Anatomy star Eric Dane, who is expecting his second child with wife Rebecca Gayheart, quietly checked himself into rehab last month as a "preventative measure" to deal with a dependency on painkillers, according to Star magazine.

"Eric felt things spiraling out of control and decided he needed to get some help," a source says.

The actor's rep confirms the rehab stint, saying in a statement that Dane "voluntarily checked himself into a treatment facility to help him get off of pain medication that he was prescribed for a sports injury that he suffered over the recent hiatus. He reports back to work next week. Business as usual."

Poached Mackerel Roll with Mayo

Preparation:

1. Place fillets in skillet just large enough to fit them in single layer. Add lemon juice, thyme and season to taste with salt. Barely cover fillets with cold water and place over medium heat. Cook 8 minutes and remove from heat. Check doneness of fillets. If not quite cooked, keep in water for few minutes. Residual heat will continue to cook them. Strain water, chill fillets.
2. Preheat broiler. Then in medium bowl, combine mayonnaise, mace, celery, shallot, and a little salt. Mix to combine, then flake in chilled mackerel. Gently mix by hand to coat with mayo.
3. Brush potato rolls with the canola oil and place under broiler. Remove when golden brown and fill each with a generous heap of mackerel mix.

Vive la French wines

PETER ROCKWELL
LIQUIDASSETS@EASTLINK.CA
TWITTER: @THEREALWINEGUY

In our current wine world — where fruit forward juice from the southern hemisphere rules — French winemakers have a tough time catching a break. That may be bit hard to believe since almost every grape populating New World wine labels has its roots in France. French wines, though, have a reputation for being full-bodied and not so easy drinking.

Travelling I re-discovered how approachable its wines actually are, especially the reds from Beaujolais. Balanced, soft and fruity, they're ideal introductions to French wines and make perfect summer sippers.

I got a chance to shake the hand of "the" Georges Duboeuf during my trip and his 2010 Beaujolais-Villages ($13.05 - $16.99) — made with grapes selected from among 38 specific villages — is a refreshingly food-friendly mix of mashed red fruits, light tannins and bright acidity. PRICES REFLECT THE RANGE ACROSS CANADA. Hydration

Sherry Torkos, a pharmacist, shares her top two tips for staying hydrated on-the-go.

1. Pack a cooler full of ice and water for long trips.
2. Water activities can be misleading because your body will be cool, but sun is still absorbing water in your system.

▶ Grilling the toast on the barbecue gives it a unique flavour.

Breakfast in bed

These recipes are kid & adult friendly with subtle sweetness Cinnamon French Toast is made on the grill

Ever thought breakfast could get a sumertime makeover?

This recipe for Cinnamon French Toast proves it's possible.

It involves grilling the bread on the barbecue instead of in the oven.

Preparation:

1. In a large bowl whisk the eggs, milk, vanilla, cinnamon, sugar, and salt. Arrange the bread in one layer in a large baking dish and pour the egg mixture over the bread. Let the bread stand for 10 minutes at room temperature, turning the bread occasionally so that all the slices get a chance to sit in the liquid on both sides.
2. Prepare the grill for direct cooking over medium–low heat (about 350°F).
3. Brush the cooking grates clean. Tip one slice of bread on its side so that any extra liquid runs off. Spray both sides with the oil and then place on the grill. Repeat with the remaining slices. Grill over direct medium–low heat, with the lid closed as much as possible, until firm on both sides and golden brown, 6 to 8 minutes, turning once.
4. Remove from the grill and dust with confectiones' sugar. Serve immediately with butter and syrup.

Ingredients:

- 6 large eggs
- 1 1/2 cups whole milk
- 1 tablespoon pure vanilla extract
- 1 tablespoon ground cinnamon
- 2 tablespoons granulated sugar
- 1/8 teaspoon kosher salt
- 8 slices country–style white bread, each about 3/4 inch thick
- Canola oil spray
- Confectioners' sugar
- Butter
- Maple syrup

▶ These pancakes serve four.

Preparation:

1. In a bowl, combine the lours, baking powder, baking soda and ground flaxseed.
2. Make a well in the centre and add milk and yogurt. Stir with a whisk until batter is smooth.
3. Heat butter in a non-stick griddle or a large non-stick skillet. Ladle in batter to form 7.5- to 10-cm (3- to 4-inch) pancakes. Drop 8 blueberries onto each pancake. Wait for bubbles to appear in batter and turn pancake over to cook other side.
4. Serve hot with maple syrup. CANADIAN PRESS/ LIBERTE YOGURT

Ingredients:

- 300 ml (1 1/4 cups) whole-wheat pastry flour
- 175 ml (3/4 cup) spelt flour
- 7 ml (1 1/2 tsp) baking powder
- 5 ml (1 tsp) baking soda
- 30 ml (2 tbsp) ground flaxseed
- 375 ml (1 1/2 cups) Greek yogurt
- 300 to 375 ml (1 1/4 to 1 1/2 cups)

Supertour: Get me to the geek

Missing out on Comic-Con? Need comic trivia fix? A guided tour of NYC's superhero superspots awaits you

"I don't get the whole Harry Potter thing," a young boy says to our tour guide as we trudge down a midtown Manhattan street, the pavement glistening in the beastly mid-July sun.

"I don't either," says our guide, empathetically.

Potter, Shmotter. The boy wizard, pop culture hero though he may be, simply has no place on the Superhero Tour of New York. No, this two-hour walk is about traditional comic superheroes: Spider-Man, Batman, Captain America, the Green Lantern, Superman. Fans come to honour not only them, but the geeky guys who created them.

Indeed, geeks are very welcome on this outing, run by the Celebrity Planet company and usually hosted by the very geek-friendly Paul Lepelletier, a former comic cartoonist himself, now an advertising art director. He's come dressed for our tour in a belly-hugging shirt splattered with cartoon Popeyes, shorts, and a Superman baseball cap from Metropolis, Ill. (the hometown of Superman, duh.)

"Geek is my secret identity," Lepelletier quips.

Our tour begins, fittingly, at Jim Hanley's Universe, a comic book store just across from the Empire State Building. I've brought along my 8-year-old and 10-year-old kids, but truth be told, the tour is not perfect for that age group. When kids of that age think superheroes, they want something truly visual.

No, this is a tour for people who love nothing more than to stand by a nondescript building and learn that the Batman creator once worked there. Or to stand on the street corner where Peter Parker, in the Spider-Man movie, was dropped off by his Uncle Ben, who was about to get killed.

Lepellletier takes us next to a Park Avenue building where Will Eisner, the comic entrepreneur and artist who created "The Spirit," once had his studios. "I had the honour of being Eisner's assistant," says Lepelletier, now in his 50s, proudly.

Farther up Park Avenue we see the home of Kirk Alyn, known as the first actor to play Superman, in the 1948 film. It's just across from the home of Lenore Lemmon, one-time fiancee to the more famous Superman of the 1950s TV show, George Reeves. (A discussion ensues on the cause of Reeves' mysterious 1959 death.)

The tour usually ends at the Overlook Bar, where art by prominent cartoonists graces the walls. Alas, the bar is closed on this particular day. So we part by the famous globe in the Daily Planet lobby. The comic geeks are disappointed about the bar, but happy overall.

Dino, the comic illustrator, seems almost misty as he tries to sum up what comics mean to him.

"They're today's mythology," he says thoughtfully. "Batman? He's Zeus."

Davis the hero for the Jays

Speedy outfielder comes off the bench, hits a tiebreaking double in the eighth inning against Seattle

BLUE JAYS	MARINERS

Rajai Davis is building a strong case to avoid being relegated to the Blue Jays bench.

Davis hit a tiebreaking double in the eighth inning and Toronto swept the Seattle Mariners with a 7-5 victory on Thursday.

It was the second time in three games Davis came off the bench to contribute in a late-inning win. He entered the game as a pinch-runner for Eric Thames in Toronto's three-run seventh inning.

"It just so happens that we're in a little bit of a stretch right where guys come off the bench and have contributed in a big way," manager Toronto John Farrell said. "Today was no different with (Mike) McCoy and obviously a huge hit by Rajai.

"He hasn't been relegated to a bench role but he has the knack for some flair late in the game. He's still going to get the majority of his reps in centre field."

The game was played with the roof closed at Rogers Centre because of sweltering conditions outside, with temperatures reaching the high 30s.

It gave the Blue Jays a sweep of the three-game series and extended Seattle's losing streak to 12 games, prompting Mariners manager Eric Wedge to vent some frustration after the game.

"We've got to get tougher," he said. "This game will eat you up if you don't get tougher. They fought back today, but we've got to do a better job from inning to inning."

Mike McCoy, who played second base as Aaron Hill was given the day off, started the eighth-inning rally with a two-out double and Yunel Escobar walked to bring up Davis who got his big hit off reliever David Pauley (5-4).

In Tuesday's 6-5 win, Davis entered the game as a pinch-runner in the ninth inning and stole two bases in the 14th to set up the winning sacrifice fly by John McDonald.

Davis started both games on the bench because Travis Snider was used in centre field for both games to get more left-handed bats in the game.

Farrell even forgave Davis for thinking it was the ninth inning and that his hit was a walkoff double. Otherwise his speed might have given him a triple.

"I'm thankful he got the hit and yeah we do play nine innings," Farrell said.

"I guess I was just focusing on hitting and it felt good off the bat and I was admiring it a little bit," Davis said. "It was just a good pitch to hit and we were able to square it up and hit it where they ain't and we scored some runs."

Heat can't keep Argos off field

Soaring temperature doesn't impress defensive tackle Claude Wroten, who's used to Louisiana summers

Claude Wroten can't understand what all the fuss is about.

Forecasters expected the temperature in Toronto to hit a record 38 C (104 F) on Thursday, with the humidex projected to be 48 C (118 F). But despite the sweltering heat, it was business as usual for Wroten and the Toronto Argonauts, who practised outdoors for about two hours as originally scheduled without incident.

"Oh man, if you could ask for a great day you'd ask for a day like this," said the six-foot-two, 298-pound defensive tackle, sporting an ear-to-ear smile. "I'm used to triple-digit heat ... but this? Shoot. I love it."

Then again, Wroten is an old hand when it comes to playing football in extreme heat. The 27-year-old grew up in Bastrop, La., and played his college football at Louisiana State University in Baton Rouge, La.

But other sports associations erred on the side of caution.

The extreme heat alert forced the cancellation of racing at both Toronto's Woodbine Racetrack as well as Mohawk Racetrack in nearby Campbellville, Ont. And the Toronto Blue Jays beat the Seattle Mariners 7-5 on Thursday afternoon with the Rogers Centre roof closed.

The issue of football players practising excessively in sweltering heat made headlines Aug. 1, 2001 when Corey Stringer, an offensive lineman with the Minnesota Vikings, died of complications from heat stroke during the NFL team's training camp.

COLIN MCCONNELL/TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

"I remember practising with it was 118 (F) during training camp at LSU. But we did go inside towards the end of practice because it got too hot, around 122 degrees (50 C)."
CLAUDE WROTEN

The death of the six-foot-four, 335-pound Stringer sent shockwaves throughout the football world and resulted in major changes regarding heat stroke prevention. It also impacted Rob Murphy, the Argos' towering six-foot-five, 310-pound offensive tackle who was a college teammate of Stringer's at Ohio State.

"Unfortunately, because of Corey's situation, new light has been shed on especially how to take care of the big guys during hot times," Murphy said. "It's tough, it's hot and obviously you're dropping a lot of weight during practice but the night before you're drinking Gatorade at home, drinking during morning meetings and then we get out here and lose it all.

"It's just a vicious cycle."

During CFL training camps teams purposely held practices in the early morning and late afternoon so as to bypass the hottest temperatures of the day. Many NFL teams opt for evening workouts not only to give their players more time to rest but also work out in cooler conditions.

Argos head coach/GM Jim Barker began telling his players earlier in the week the importance of remaining properly hydrated leading up to Thursday's practice.

"We knew Thursday was going to be the hot day so we told them to hydrate," Barker said."But there was a breeze out there, it was windy and it (heat) didn't seem like it was a factor."

Kick-returner Chad Owens admitted he felt the heat, adding it rarely gets this hot in his native Hawaii. But Owens learned a valuable lesson last year on the value of hydration and now drinks up to for four litres of water daily.

"Last year I had some cramping issues in my calves and I don't want to go through that so I've been drinking a lot of water," said the CFL's top special-teams player last season. "The hot weather is something you can't avoid, it's Mother Nature and it's going to happen.

"It's a mind-over-matter thing and we did a great job of focusing and executed at a high level."

CFL EXTRA POINTS

DAN TOTH
OTTAWA@METRONEWS.CA

Greg Marshall waited a lifetime for his first CFL head coaching job, but will he wait just as long for his first win? At 0-3, some passionate Saskatchewan fans are calling for the new coach's head on a platter while other scapegoats range from erratic starting QB Darian Durant to defensive co-ordinator Richie Hall, who replaced 'D' guru Gary Etcheverry in the off-season.

Hamilton stomped on Saskatchewan in a 33-3 victory last weekend that could have been even worse if the Tabbies offence had clicked on several scoring chances.

Last year's West Division champs, who've represented the West in three of the last four Grey Cups, are in need of a shakeup and not so much for their record, but for the way the team has lost.

Durant has tossed up twice as many interceptions (six) as touchdown passes this season and his team has been dominated in consecutive weeks by Edmonton, Montreal and Hamilton. The D-line is unable to supply any pressure on opposing QBs while the secondary has been dissected in each loss.

The focal point for fan frustration is Marshall, who must be wishing he had chosen a less stressful line of work.

Cleo's on the clock:

It's year two of the Cleo Lemon Experiment, and as the Toronto Argos prepare for their home opener Saturday against Winnipeg, the status of the team's No. 1 pivot is getting shaky.

Yes, he managed to guide the Double Blue to the East final last season — thanks in large part to a fine Argos defence — and helped beat Calgary in Week 1 this season, but at some point he needs to shows signs he's developing into a CFL quarterback. Nobody expects Lemon to be another Doug Flutie (although that would be nice), but Lemon's inability to pile up touchdowns or captivate the Argos fan base has reached a critical point.

In a quarterback-driven league, Lemon needs to grab the wheel and start driving or the Argos will have to turn to backups Dalton Bell or Steven Jyles. It's their turn.

B.C.'s slow star nothing new under Buono:

Is it time to fire Wally Buono? When the B.C. Lions last started a season 0-3 in 2002, the perfect solution was to gas Steve Buratto and replace him with Adam Rita.

Lions owner David Braley said this week he's confident in Buono (for now) and you can't really blame him for sticking with a winner.

NFL LOCKOUT

Players hold key to a deal

NFL owners voted overwhelmingly in favour of a tentative 10-year agreement to end the lockout, pending player approval Thursday.

The vote was 31-0, with the Oakland Raiders abstaining from the ratification, which came after a full day of meetings at an Atlanta-area hotel.

While owners pored over the terms, commissioner Roger Goodell spoke on the phone several times with NFL Players Association head DeMaurice Smith.

"Hopefully, we can all work quickly, expeditiously, to get this agreement done," Goodell said.

Players still had to sign off on the deal — and they must re-establish their union quickly for the agreement to stand, the NFL said. Players didn't vote on a full pact Wednesday because there were unresolved issues; they planned to have a conference call later Thursday.

However, Smith wrote in an email to the 32 player representatives shortly after the owners' decision: "Issues that need to be collectively bargained remain open; other issues, such as workers' compensation, economic issues and end of deal terms, remain unresolved. There is no agreement between the NFL and the players at this time. I look forward to our call tonight."

A person familiar with the negotiations told The Associated Press that players were unlikely to vote Thursday on a tentative agreement because they have not seen the full proposal approved by owners. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today's horoscope

For today's crossword answers and for expanded horoscopes, go to metronews.ca

♈ Aries March 21-April 20 No matter what happens today, you must make a conscious effort to stay above chaos and confusion.

♉ Taurus April 21-May 21 Today you could flare up at the smallest provocation, but now you're aware so take steps to prevent it.

♊ Gemini May 22-June 21 Everyone expects great things of you and you don't want to let them down. But are your aims identical?

♋ Cancer June 22-July 22 You will deal with a messy situation today, but you've never worried about getting your hands dirty.

♌ Leo July 23-Aug.23 If your instincts tell you to take a certain action today, you must do so without worrying what others might think.

♍ Virgo Aug. 24- Sept. 22 If someone confronts you with evidence of wrongdoing, don't try to wriggle out of it. Be honest.

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23 Today's hyper cosmic outlook suggests you will act quickly and worry about what you have done later.

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22 You are in over your head and need assistance from those who know what they are doing.

♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21 A project that you put on the back burner a few months ago has once again captured your interest.

♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 20 Sometimes you wonder if it is worth trying to get along with a certain person. Don't give up yet.

♒ Aquarius Jan. 21-Feb. 18 Don't waste your time on projects that don't bring a guaranteed financial return.

♓ Pisces Feb. 19-March 20. You may be forced to go in a direction you don't want to go today, but don't sweat it. SALLY BROMPTON
